Dear Sir,

At the end of the war this Company, seeing no future in light aircraft construction at that time, made available the drawings of the Chilton Monoplane to various people interested in the ultra light aircraft movement, so that these could be produced in kit form.

In many cases these were the only drawings available and over the years with individuals leaving and firms changing hands all trace of these drawings has now been lost.

We continue to receive enquiries from abroad and should, therefore, be glad to collect such material as is available, and your name has been given to us as somebody who might have some information on the subject, for which we should be very grateful.

Yours faithfully,

A. R. Ward
Chairman.
